Market Review

Global equities continued to rally in August 2024, recovering strongly from the spike in volatility in earlier in the month. For the month ending August 2024, the defensive sectors of Health Care, Consumer Staples and Utilities led while Energy, Consumer Discretionary and Materials lagged. In terms of investment styles, Minimum Volatility outperformed while Momentum underperformed. Across the major geographic regions, Europe equities led, while China equities lagged.

In Aug 2024, the fixed income markets also delivered positive returns in August 2024. US Treasuries, Investment Grade and High Yield indices all delivered positive returns. Corporate bonds outperformed Treasuries. Treasuries index was up as US 10-year yield declined while. Credit spreads of High Yield tightened in while that of Investment Grade was about flat.

The Commodities markets had mixed performances in August 2024. Gold was up while Oil and Copper were down. The US Dollar fell against both Developed Market currencies and Asia currencies.

Market Outlook

The outlook for equities over the medium term remains constructive. While the economy is showing signs of slowing, our base case is that an economic recession is not imminent. Real Gross Domestic Product ("GDP") growth in the US remains positive and above levels in previous recessions. Earnings growth remains intact and is poised to continue its positive trajectory. On the inflation front, there are positive developments as inflation is falling and this gives the US Federal Reserve ("Fed") the capacity to cut rates to support growth.

The relatively fast pace which the equity markets rebounded in August 2024 is an indication that the equity bull market remains intact. However, markets are entering into a seasonally weak period and investors could be circumspect in risk taking due to the upcoming US elections. Indicators remain mixed with equity breadth improving but below highs seen in the year. Risk appetite is also not strong with high beta stocks underperforming low volatility stocks. Looking ahead, there is capacity for the Elite Funds to add risk. To that end, underlying manager re carefully analyzing the markets and will be guided by our balance-of-indicators approach.
