Market Review

Global equities continued to rally in September 2025 for the sixth consecutive month. Across the major geographic regions in US dollar ("USD") terms, Asia equities led, while India equities lagged. For the month ending September 2025, Information Technology, Communication Services and Utilities led while Consumer Staples, Energy and Financials lagged. In terms of investment styles, Growth led while Minimum Volatility lagged.

The fixed income markets delivered positive returns in September 2025. US treasuries, US investment grade corporate bonds and US high yield corporate bonds delivered positive returns. US 10-year yield decreased from the end August 2025 level. Both US high yield credit spread, and US investment grade credit spread tightened.

Broad commodities markets were up in September 2025. Gold as well as Copper were up, while Oil posted a negative return. The USD was broadly flat and had a mixed performance against other currencies.

Market Outlook

The Underlying Fund Managers are moderately constructive on the outlook for risk assets over the medium term. While certain macro data indicators such as US industrial production, retail sales and exports point to an uneven recovery, there are other positive signs as Chinese policy makers have pivoted to defend growth, and Europe and Japan are likely to pursue fiscal stimulus. US earnings remain healthy coming off a solid 2Q2025 earnings season. Looking forward to 3Q2025, based FactSet's report as of 3 October 2025, analysts have increased earnings estimates for 3Q2025 which is a departure from a typical quarter where analysts usually reduce earnings estimates during the quarter. FactSet's report as of 3 October 2025 also indicates the number of companies issuing positive earnings guidance for the third quarter is above the 5-year average and 10-year average. The Underlying Fund Manager is watching for signs for improvement in market breadth to support the thesis of a sustainable equity rally.

With President Trump at the helm, policy uncertainty is likely to remain elevated and there could be bouts of volatility as market participants react to policy measures announced by the US administration. Stewardship via active management and disciplined risk management is key to navigate the ever-evolving investment landscape.
