MONTHLY FUND PERFORMANCE UPDATE AIA ELITE CONSERVATIVE FUND

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks long-term total return (combination of capital growth and income) and at the same time minimize short term capital risk by investing in a portfolio of equities and fixed income securities. The Fund's expected average exposure to equities will be approximately 30% over the long-term, however this exposure may vary from time to time. The other 70% will be invested in fixed income or money market instruments.

Market Review

Global equities posted negative returns in September 2023, for the 2nd consecutive month. Energy was the only sector that delivered positive returns whereas the other sectors posted negative returns. In September 2023, Consumer Staples and Utilities were down more than the broad market which is atypical during equity stress periods. Large cap equities outperformed both mid cap and small cap equities. In terms of styles, growth and quality lagged while the rest of the styles outperformed. Across the major geographic regions, Asia equities outperformed US and Europe equities.

Most fixed income markets were down in September 2023. Treasuries were down as US 10-year yield rose by 46 basis points and ended September 2023 at 4.57%. US high yield outperformed US investment grade for the 6th consecutive month. In terms of geographic region, EUR corporate bonds underperformed US corporate bonds in translated USD terms. Leveraged loans index enjoyed another positive month in September 2023, bringing year to September 2023 return to around 10%.

The broad commodities market was down in September 2023. Growth sensitive commodities diverged as copper was down, but oil was up. Gold was also down and the Dollar Index demonstrated safe haven characteristic and was up in September 2023.

Market Outlook

The investment landscape is one of the most challenging seen in decades. The economy needs to contend with the fastest rate hike in cycle and the largest ever quantitative tightening. The Federal Reserve ("Fed") has maintained their rhetoric that the fight for inflation is not over. With expectations for rate cuts checked, one of the supports for risk assets is under pressure. We assess that a stable bond market is needed to provide the next leg up for risk assets.

Over the short term, current economic releases do not suggest that US is about to enter a recession imminently. The US labour market remains strong and wage growth is healthy. In addition, earnings are not expected to dip meaningfully in the near term. As of 29 September 2023, Factset reports that for Q3 2023, the estimated year-over-year earnings decline for the S&P 500 is marginal at negative 0.1%. Factset reports that analysts are projecting the S&P 500 to deliver earnings growth of 12.2% and revenue growth of 5.6% for CY 2024. In such an environment, investors should not preclude the scenario of risk assets holding up over the short term.

Given the confluence of forces pulling asset markets in different directions, for the Elite portfolios, the focus is to construct a well-diversified portfolio. The Elite portfolios remain underweight equities. Elite's equity strategy is anchored by AIA New Multinationals Fund and AIA Global Select Equity Fund to provide a balance between investment styles. In addition, AIA Global Quality Growth Fund will also play a part to improve upside capture. We continue to apply bi-directional risk management for the Elite portfolios.
